A broker must be aware of real estate laws that could affect his or her brokerage.

This course is designed to give a superficial view of the brokerage side of the real estate business and explains the fundamentals and discusses what new brokers must consider.

In this course, you will find many useful resources to help you start your new brokerage, setting up business systems and growing it.

In addition, it covers real estate laws, ethics, independent contractor agreements, policy manuals, agency policies, and the day to day operations of a brokerage (i.e., business plans, budgets, record keeping, etc.).
