Texas real estate licensees face a changing marketplace in which quick decisions can make the difference in closing a transaction. Maintaining competence in this increasingly competitive profession demands that licensees receive and reinforce their understanding of ethics. The goal of this text is to present real estate ethics in a clear and interesting way.

Three major characteristics support this goal: content directed to ethics considerations, margin notes (discussions and questions that apply learning), and brevity of presentation.

This course includes topics such as Canons of Professional Ethics, Agency Relationships, Offers, Disclosure, Advertising, Dispute Resolution, and NAR Code of Ethics discussions.
